Double Your Gift Here!

Dear PCRM supporter,

Last week I sent you an important e-mail that described how the Department of Defense (DoD) is using animals in military medical training. Thousands of animals endure great pain, suffering, and death in a practice that is totally unnecessary because we have better ways to train personnel to treat soldiers injured in combat. Your help is needed today to stop this practice and stand up to the DoD!

Please make a gift today to help PCRM expand our work keeping animals out of harm's way. When you make your gift online by Dec. 31, it will be doubled!

One of PCRM's longtime donors has offered to match every gift that PCRM receives online between now and December 31, up to $25,000. Our work depends upon all PCRM supporters working together. Please make a gift today. Your contribution and impact—will be doubled.

I know you care about animals and want to advance medical training to save animal and human lives. So I'm sure you oppose the DoD's use of animals in combat training courses. The harm inflicted on these pigs, monkeys, and goats can and must be stopped.

PCRM is committed to challeng...

Dear Ms. Hostetter,

I hope you saw Dr Barnard's e-mail to you last week. The cruelty inflicted on these animals is hard to fathom. Here's what a soldier reported to the New York Times about what was done to one young pig (warning—the following is graphic):

"They shot him twice in the face with a 9-millimeter pistol, and then six times with an AK-47 and then twice with a 12-guage shotgun. And then he was set on fire."

One of PCRM's members has offered to match your online gift between now and Dec. 31 —and he has increased his original challenge of $25,000 to $50,000 because of the incredible support we have been receiving for this campaign. Make a gift today!

With full member support, PCRM will be well-positioned to challenge the Department of Defense representatives to change their animal policies and improve their medical training when PCRM meets with them in January.

Thank you for your time and support.

PETITION TO: Senator Daniel Kahikina Akaka

As a concerned constituent, I am deeply troubled by the U.S. military's use of live animals in combat trauma and chemical casualty management training. This cruel and unnecessary practice provides subpar training to those personnel who treat injured U.S. soldiers, and it violates the DoD's own animal welfare regulation. It is a matter of extreme urgency because every year, thousands of pigs, monkeys, and goats are being shot, burned, and exposed to toxic chemicals despite the existence of superior nonanimal methods. I strongly support PCRM's campaign to convince the DoD to stop using live animals. Please use your power and influence to help end the pain and suffering of defenseless animals.

Sincerely,

Mr. William R. Brown
